

2025 ICPF Call For Workshops

Dear Colleagues,

Eastern Mennonite University is pleased to invite you to the 2025 Intercollegiate Peace Fellowship Conference (ICPF). Hosted in the Shenandoah Valley of Harrisonburg, VA, this annual student planned and led initiative will run from Friday, February 21st to Sunday February 23rd, 2025.

The theme this year is “Building Solidarity: from Turtle Island to Palestine.” We anticipate the conference will be a time to learn about these movements, about organizing and movement building more generally, and make connections with each other to do it on their home campus.

Representatives from the Coalition to Dismantle the Doctrine of Discovery and Mennonite Action will be sharing insights and observations related to the theme, but we want your active participation in the conference as well! One of the unique parts of this gathering is the opportunity for professors, organizations, and students to share their own thoughts on and experiences of peace in action.

We are inviting you to submit proposals for presentations or workshops related to the theme of “Building Solidarity: from Turtle Island to Palestine”. We would be honored to have your participation based on your solidarity work around Palestine and indigenous issues.

Ideally, a workshop would be about an hour long and we would like our theme, “Building Solidarity: from Turtle Island to Palestine”, to be integrated into the workshop. That could be through telling stories about how solidarity work plays a role in your field or anything else that you think could fit. Please submit your proposal for a workshop or presentation at emupeacefellowship@gmail.com

Let us know if you are interested!
